

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Lloyd George has engaged passage on every ship bound for the United States for the next two weeks. He means to come—Just the matter of Ireland will keep him overseas. If he could only sail with a sprig of shamrock in his buttonhole—what an ovation would be his—in Irish Boston, for instance!

An "Association of Nations"—they are to call it! A "League of Nations" is more euphonious, more comprehensive, more definitive, and already a fait accompli! Why this distinction of little difference?

Deadliness in warfare is one of its chief objects. Why, then, all this pother about poison gases, submarines, bombing aeroplanes and other murderous agencies? When war is made so fatal as to be a race suicide—it will cease by virtue of its very efficacy! Hail the means and hasten the day! We knew a distinguished Colonel of Marines who seriously advocated the immediate murder of all prisoners of war. We shuddered at his words—but we were more than half-convinced by his logic.

Genius is said to border on insanity. An unusual but striking proof of this, is the case of Henry Ford. A genius in his own sphere—but a monomaniac on the subject of Jewry!

The trial of the unspeakable, greasy Arbuckle will probably close this week. Whatever the outcome, we believe every self-respecting American will forever hereafter shun his semblance on the silver screen.

"God said, I am tired of Kings, I suffer them no more; up to my ears the morning brings the outrage of the poor. Think ye I made this ball a field of havoc and war, where tyrants great and small might hark the weak and poor?"—These words, by the great Emerson, are an epitome of the World War. The kings have gone peale-mele, and the fields of havoc and war are soon to be fields of tith and industry. "Soon"—a comparative word—it means anything from a minute to an eon! But it means in this instance—between the two. If we follow the paths of peace, 'till we nearer an eon. This was some time a paradox but the time gives it proof. What we mean is that one more terrible war will hasten the advent of perpetual peace. But we prefer the longer way round.

President Harding, in his Birmingham speech, refers to Stoddard's "Rising Tide of Color," and straightway sets out to prove that he has not read it—or, reading—has not understood it. It is a book that should be read by every Southern man and woman. Its array of facts and figures is startling. Its conclusions may or may not be approved. But its viewpoint is certainly worth prayerful consideration on the part of the White Race.

Another sniffing committee from the United States Senate has sailed the stormy main, and is now on an island set amidst the emerald and sapphire seas of the tropics. We refer to the senate committee investigating the affairs of Haiti and Santo Domingo. We fear their report will be one-sided, partial and premature. As to Haiti, they should devote at least two weeks by horseback on a trip into the interior. They should likewise keep all the dusky politicians rigidly at home while they are sniffing and snooping. The natives are strictly under the thumb of the political leaders, and will keep mum or chatter just as the high Vodoo sign is given them. When it is recalled that the Haitians are little or none removed from their savage ancestry in Darkest Africa, their capacity for self-government may be doubted. In fact, they need at least a century of primary education, after having the fear of God instilled into their ebony bosoms. It is a certainty that Vodooism is the prevailing religious belief among the inhabitants, and almost equally as certain that cannibalism and human sacrifice are among its rites. It is worse than emotional sentimentalism to talk about self-determination in Haiti. It is a rag gush!

Santo Domingo, on the contrary, is a land of high civic ideals and cultivated people. The two countries, while composing one island, are as wide apart in their cultural development as this country and Senegambia. It were worse than a crime—it would be a blunder—to class them together—or to apply the same rules of statecraft to their administration.

COMMISSION TO EXAMINE INTO CHINESE PUZZLE

Fate of Conference up to Tokio—Success Made or Marred by Japanese Decision

TEN YEARS IDLENESS

Today's Discussions May Bring Solution of the Vexed Situation—A Weighty Session Expected

The fate of the armament conference rests in Tokio today. Japan as has been anticipated from the outset, can make or mar the decision. She retains the last word. She can accept the American naval program, now completely endorsed by the United States, and make the conference a success. Or she can continue to insist on the 10-10-7 ratio in naval strength and the wild mad rush for naval supremacy will continue until the world is involved in another war.

That was the situation facing the conference when its day's activities ended last night. This does not mean that an impasse has been reached. Far from this. But it does mean that the friendly outcome of the conference rests entirely on a decision by Japan. Members of the Nippon delegation late last night explained that they hoped for an accord. They called attention to four days for a reply to reach Washington to an inquiry that is sent to Tokio. And they intimated that a final decision might soon be forthcoming. However, it was suggested that there was a question of opinion among the delegates here and it also was intimated that up to the president of the conference was not a unit in its naval opinion.

In this connection, Prince Tokugawa, chief of the delegation, last night suggested that the views of any individual member of the conference should be kept private. He suggested that while they might entertain opinions at variance with the possible outcome of the conference, they still could not discuss them when the final decision was brought before the representatives of Japan. Without stating so in specific terms he intimated that the opinions of individual members of the delegation still had to be submitted to a vote of that delegation.

How frank that statement is will be developed today. The complete committee on naval armament, made up of the delegations from the United States, Great Britain and Japan, will receive the reports of their experts. They probably will hold an executive meeting. At that time they will have to reach a final decision. It will be whether the demand of the United States for the reduction of capital ships shall be accepted. Japan last night suggested that it was not yet ready to announce its position. There have been meetings throughout Japan at which the question of the 10-10-7 ratio has been discussed. They have been near riots in denouncing the suggestion. The Japanese delegation here is divided as to whether these meetings accurately represent the viewpoint of Japan. They are more or less divided on problems of policy. But the decision finally is up to Japan—and despite denials—it is up to Tokio.

The American position is not subject to change. It was arrived at only after the most painstaking investigation. Far greater sacrifices were made by the United States in the case of either Great Britain or Japan. From the highest American source possible the following outline was obtained last night:

The situation as it appears today is simple. If the approach of this subject on the basis of national needs there is very much that can be said. Great Britain has possessions in every sea. The United States has a vast coast line on two oceans and insular possessions widely separated. If you take national needs, as suggested by Japan, their basis of 10 to 7 as a ratio is very extravagant. In fact the experts of the United States, after a very careful inquiry, placed the figure from this standpoint as at 10 to 5. But at no time has the United States approached this subject from the standpoint of national needs. We understand this is a subject that can be expanded at will.

What the United States has said in assuming the leadership in discussion of the naval race is: "Stop where you are!" That is the American position. There is a foot race. Some one says stop. All agree. Then some one of the contestants asks to get ahead ten yards. That is not the position of the United States. The question is the existing naval strength? No one questions that the capital ship is the basis of naval strength.

So we considered it from that standpoint. There are all sorts of things we can take, but all should lead to the same solution. So at

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Nov. 30.—The problem of the limitation of naval armament is so near solution that it can be safely predicted that the general public will be taken into the confidence of the delegates by Mr. Hughes, their Chairman, at a public session to be held in all probability next Monday, December 5.

The naval experts having almost exhausted their investigation of facts and figures, the delegates one and all are prepared to respond to the universal sentiment for disarmament and yielding to the voice of the world that results in a peace and a working program be accepted.

The yardstick employed by the American experts in preparing the Hughes plan has stood the test and the invited nations are willing to accept the battleship as the measure of their naval structures. It can be predicted that the 5-5-3 ratio for the United States, Great Britain, and Japan will stand, subject to what-ever changes may be made in ships within that ratio an individual nation with the consent of the others may care to make.

Encouraged by the spirit of conciliation and sacrifice that now seems to be prevailing among the arms conference delegates on naval subjects, the administration hopes a five-power naval agreement may be reached in time for submission to the Senate Committee soon after the regular session begins next Monday.

Unexpected obstacles may delay this plan and it may not even be found necessary to submit the agreement to the Senate, but the intention is as stated above. The agreement is expected to be approximately a 5-5-3-2-2 basis, 5 for the United States and Great Britain; 3 for Japan, and 2 for France and Italy. Consideration of Far Eastern questions will of course continue for sometime after a naval agreement is reached.

William Jennings Bryan, several times candidate for President on the Democratic ticket and one time Secretary of State, paid a hurried visit to the Pan-American Union Building today where the sessions of the Far Eastern Conference are taking place. Mr. Bryan explained that he had come to view a picture of himself presented to the Union while Mr. Bryan, as Secretary of State, was Chairman of the committee on the governing Board of the United States.

"The picture was taken some years ago," said the Commoner, "when I was much better looking than I am now."

Scarcely half an hour after Bryan had departed from the building, a crash, as if a thousand dishes had fallen, was heard in the corridors of the building. Clerks and employees rushed from "room to room." The delegates who had assembled were startled. Investigation discovered that the picture of Bryan which, up to today, had been hanging on the wall enclosed in glass, had tumbled from its resting place and the glass covering smashed into a thousand pieces. Up to a late hour, Bryan had not been notified of the disaster that had befallen his photograph.

During his conference with newspaper men yesterday afternoon President Harding was informed that there were reports that he would spend the Christmas holidays on a hunting trip through North Carolina. The question as put to him made him smile as the correspondents recalled that they thought he was strong for disarmament of every kind.

"I never shoot," replied the President. "I doubt if I ever carried a gun in my life and it is too late now to begin."

The President went on to say that he was perfectly satisfied with his residence at the White House, and that whenever he had an opportunity he would get his recreation through horse-back riding and golf.

The rapid progress of the Committee for Far Eastern questions, has been in the nature of a great surprise to the delegates to the arms conference who, so far, have encountered a minimum of opposition from Japan and a most surprising willingness to co-operate that seems unusual in view of the fact that practically every decision so far reached has affected Japan much more than any other nation. The speed which has been made on Far Eastern matters is beyond the most optimistic hopes of the delegates, and argues well for the ultimate solution of Far Eastern problems.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE MORSE SHIP DEALS

Will Investigate $40,000,000 Contracts With Shipping Board

SHIP BOARD TO ACT

Probe of Morse Transactions to be Completed by Special Assistant Attorney General Dobyns

The government is preparing to lay before Federal grand jury here on December 8 the results of its investigation in connection with certain transactions between Charles W. Morse and the Shipping Board. Reports have been current in Washington and New York for some time that the government was contemplating a grand jury proceeding.

Shipping Board officials would make no announcement yesterday on the ground that they had no right to talk about a contemplated grand jury proceeding. Fletcher Dobyns, special assistant attorney general, attached to the Shipping Board, however, when asked regarding the report, would say no more than that the case would be presented to the grand jury.

The report which has been current has said that others besides Mr. Morse would be involved. So far there is no confirmation of that. The case would be presented to the grand jury in which Mr. Morse and his associates were interested aggregated $40,000,000 in value, according to records of the board. There were four contracts in all, covering, respectively, construction of 12 wooden hulls for the Noank plant of the Groton Iron Works, two of six steel vessels each at the Groton plant of the same company and 12 steel ships at the Alexandria plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation.

Mr. Dobyns, who was selected by General Consul Schlesinger to head the investigation of these accounts, was assistant to the Attorney General under President Roosevelt. He was in charge of the investigation of the Chicago National Bank and Idaho National Bank cases, in that and the Taft administration.

Jewish Near East Relief

As noticed in The Gazette a day or two ago, our esteemed fellow-citizen, Mr. Leopold Ruben, is invited to attend the conference of prominent Southern Jews, to be held in Atlanta on December 2, to discuss plans for the third Jewish Relief Campaign. There, he will be in daily consultation with the leading Hebrews of the United States, including such men of national reputation as Felix Warburg, of Kuhn-Loeb Company, New York; Julius Rosenwald, president of Sears-Roebuck Company, of Chicago, and Louis Marshall, a partner of Samuel Untermyer, of New York.

We are informed that the Committee on Jewish Near East Relief, in Alexandria, will shortly make an appeal to our citizens for assistance in this most worthy object. This committee is composed of Leopold Ruben, chairman; Robert L. Jones, vice-chairman; and J. T. Preston, secretary and treasurer. We bespeak for them not only a courteous hearing, but likewise a generous contribution.

Woman's National Foundation

On Saturday, December 3, at 3 p. m., at the Lee Camp Hall, the three local chairmen, Mrs. W. D. Ogden, Mrs. M. L. Horner, and Mrs. George E. Warfield, with their respective groups are invited by the State Chairman, Miss Cummings, to meet Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, the president of the Women's National Foundation, to hear an address from her upon the plan and programs of the organization she represents. Mrs. Calhoun will be accompanied by one or two members of her executive board, and a most enjoyable meeting is anticipated.

VIRGINIA NEWS PARAPHRASED

Winchester—Formal organization of a chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution is to be effected this week. It was announced today by Miss Katherine R. Glass, organizing regent. The preliminary work has occupied most of a year, during which prospective members have complied with membership requirements. A name for the chapter is to be determined at a meeting of charter members tomorrow night at the Handley Library.

Lynchburg—Dr. James D. Paxton, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, who is on his annual duck hunt at Avon, N. C., in keeping with his annual custom, is sending wild ducks enough to supply most members of the local Police Department, some fifty men. The first shipment has supplied one third of the men and others will come as a result of later shooting days.

Lynchburg—Frequent disregard for the law, which prevents the crowding of aisles in local theatres, has led to City Manager Beck issuing orders to the Police Department to enforce the law. Heretofore, the police have merely warned against crowding, but the orders now are to report all violations for court investigation.

Danville—Southern Railway train No. 3, bound to Danville from Norfolk, arrived here this morning with a fine 125-pound deer which late last night sought to dispute the train's passage at a point in Southampton County. Captain J. W. Barnes, conductor on the train, said that the headlight of the engine revealed three deer on the track at about midnight. Two of the deer, apparently young, made off at great speed down the track, and, lowering its horns, awaited the train. The pilot struck the buck on the head, and, breaking its neck, pitched it to one side. Engineer Peyton Tunstall stopped the train and the deer was found with only a slight mark to show for its dash below. It was placed on the baggage car and brought to Danville, where it was placed in cold storage. Captain Barnes will take it back to Norfolk when he next leaves.

Newport News—R. J. Noland, from the steamship East Lake, was saved from death Saturday night by Officer Collins of the police department, who ran to pull Noland from the tracks on which a switch engine was operating. Noland was charged with being drunk. When the officer carried him to the police patrol box, the prisoner muttered: "This fine way to treat fellow on way home."

Lynchburg—S. G. Proffitt, the new United States marshal for the Western District of Virginia, will, it is learned here, move his headquarters and office to Roanoke during the January term of the district court here. Because of the duties of the office connected with frequent terms of court since Mr. Proffitt entered upon the discharge of the duties of his office he has been unable to make the change. The office of the marshal has been located in Martinsville since T. G. Burch, of that place, was appointed to the position under the first Wilson administration.

Winchester—Removal of the bodies, approximately 100 from the old Methodist graveyard to one plot in Mount Hebron Cemetery, is about to be undertaken by a committee of Market Street Methodist Episcopal Church. The old graveyard, last of the kind within the city limits, has been sold to the Virginia Woolen Co., which will use the site for mill purposes. The graveyard has not been used for many years. Catholic and Presbyterian graveyards were sold some years ago for building purposes after bodies had been removed.

Winchester—Mrs. Marguerite E. Harrison, speaking under auspices of the Handley Foundation, graphically pictured last night her experiences while a prisoner of Soviets in Russia for many months. Her lecture was given in Market Street Methodist Episcopal Church, and she was introduced by R. Gray Williams, president of the board of Handley trustees.

Newport News—As a result of hearing part of the evidence in the case of W. R. Robinson of Brimfield Road, Justice Walter C. Harris, of Hilton, Saturday night held Rodenhiser without bail for further hearing of evidence tonight. The man is charged with attempted criminal attack upon his 7 year old niece.

Lynchburg—Thunder and hail were experienced here this morning, the hail falling in considerable quantities for five minutes in West Lynchburg. It was lighter elsewhere.

Inscriptions To Go On Markers Being Compiled

Plans are under way for the markings of about twenty places of historical interest in the city. This will include public buildings and private dwellings. This work is in the hands of a special committee of the civic bureau of the chamber of commerce.

Members of this committee held a meeting this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce and discussed the question of suitable inscriptions to go on the various markers. Another meeting will be held shortly.

Thus far only about six responses have been received from residents granting permission for the placing of the markers. In order to have markers placed on every building proposed to be marked the consent of the property owners will be necessary.

As soon as the inscriptions are compiled orders for the markers will be given out it is stated.

Last Day Before Penalty Is Added Results In Rush

After tonight a penalty of five percent will be added on all state taxes which have not been paid in compliance with the state law. Today the office of City Treasurer Thomas W. Robinson was a busy place many property owners having postponed till the last day the payment of their taxes. The office will be open from 7 o'clock tonight till all are accommodated. A majority of the property owners of the city already have paid their state taxes, and it is stated that there are few delinquents.

CASE IN PROGRESS

The case of Noble Smith, charged with an alleged attack on Mrs. Ethel Ellmore, today is being heard before a jury in the corporation court, Judge Robinson Moncreu presiding. Considerable time was taken up in securing a jury and it was about 11 o'clock when the taking of testimony was begun.

The alleged attack took place the night of November 4 while Mrs. Ellmore was en route to her home from a festival which she attended that night in Armory Hall, she claims.

A large number of character witnesses testified on behalf of Smith. The jury selected is composed of Harry M. Bales, A. M. Sherwood, S. A. Forrest, Joseph H. West, Earl Wiley, Walter Pierpoint, C. Carroll Phillips, Thomas A. Hulfish, Julius Wolf, Fred W. Athey, W. E. Hinken and C. Page Waller.

Smith is represented by Attorney Charles Henry Smith and the prosecution is being conducted by Commonwealth's Attorney, Howard W. Smith and Attorney H. Noel Garner.

Former Resident Dies

Isaac Buckingham, a native of this city, and former resident, died in Washington Monday night. Mr. Buckingham married Miss Emma Rishell, daughter of Thomas Rishell, late of this city. Mr. Buckingham is the son of the late Thomas Buckingham, and grandson of Isaac Buckingham, who was Mayor of the city during the civil war.

In the trial of William H. Oehlert, charged with the fatal shooting of Henry Briscoe, which took place the night of October 15 a jury was obtained at Fairfax Courthouse today in about half an hour and the taking of testimony in behalf of the state was begun. Judge S. G. Brent is presiding.

Out of a venire of twenty-seven, five were excused because of the fact that they were opposed to capital punishment and two because they had formed an opinion in the case.

The jury selected follows: F. M. Alder, V. C. Donaldson, Early L. Robey, Warfield W. Watkins, J. F. Pearson, William Morris Fox, Clinton F. Jones, James Adams, H. Lester Oliver, James H. Much, Benjamin Beckwith and W. W. Louk.

The first witness called was Mrs. M. C. Briscoe, wife of the slain man. Mrs. Briscoe identified clothing worn by her husband the night of the shooting. Her husband she told the court came to Alexandria that night for the purpose of purchasing groceries. Asked how many children she had she said six. This question, however, was objected to by Attorney Burke and the court sustained the objection.

Dr. S. B. Moore told of having been called to attend Briscoe the night he was brought to the Alexandria Hospital. Two wounds in the body were described by witness, one being in the right side and one in the left side. Two bullets taken from the body of Briscoe were shown to Dr. Moore. Witness said the wound in the left side was the one that caused Briscoe's death. Immediately after Briscoe was brought to the hospital he said an operation was performed.

Clothing worn by Briscoe was identified by W. Clifton Cunningham, undertaker, who said it was given to him by a nurse at the Alexandria Hospital when he took the body of Briscoe from that institution.

Richard P. Cralle, who was with Briscoe at the time, was next witness called. The witness was asked by Attorney Burke if anyone in Briscoe's party had been drinking that night or if there was any whisky involved. The question was objected to and before the court could pass on the objection Cralle answered, "No."

Cralle told the court that Oehlert had two pistols and of Oehlert having drawn up in an automobile when Richard Stuart and he were about ending an argument regarding his machine stopping in the road causing the road to be partially blocked. About this time witness declared that Richard Stuart and Edward Patterson drove from the scene. Witness said that Richard Burnett remarked to Oehlert, "Willie, for God's sake, come on and don't have the car." Oehlert he said then got into his Oehlert's machine with Burnett and drove off.

Witness thought there were five shots fired. At the time of the shooting he was unable to say definitely whether or not the automobile was in motion.

Cralle said that the dispute between him and Stuart was of a friendly nature. Oehlert witness testified shot after getting into the car. Witness said if anyone threw stones he did not know anything about it.

At 12:35 o'clock court took a recess for luncheon and reconvened at 1:45 o'clock when Cralle again took the stand.

Oehlert is represented by Attorney Edmund Burke and the commonwealth's Attorney Wilson Farr. A number of Alexandrians are attending the trial. The trial probably will end late tomorrow afternoon.

Card Party a Success

The card party and musical tea given by the Auxiliary Board to the Alexandria Hospital in Lee Camp Hall yesterday afternoon, was a great success in every particular. Every card table was occupied with an enthusiastic group and the prizes were beautiful potted plants and ferns. The musicale which followed attracted a number of additional persons and tea was served by a committee under the chairmanship of Miss Collins Jones.

Among those taking part in the attractive program were Mrs. Ida Ullmar and Mr. Raymond Decker, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Julia Duncan, Miss Evelyn Howard, and Mrs. George E. Pickett. Mrs. Frederick P. Russell was the accompanist.

THE JEW IN HISTORY

There have been many sermons preached from the pulpit, in recent months, many articles and editorials written, and even lengthy pamphlets published, on—what do you suppose—the Jew in History! Not one of these was needed to influence a reader of education and culture. Anyone who has read history, who is cultured in art, music and literature, knows the inestimable influence of the Jew on modern civilization.

We deplore any detailed comparison of what the Jew has done in military science, in civil government, in art, in literature, in music, because the comparison is always unjust! Compared to the number of non-Jews, the ratio is at first glance, unfair!

There are so many factors that enter into the computation, to be considered, that the Jew seems to have by far the preponderance of testimony! For instance, all the disciples of Christ were Jews. He, Himself, was a Jew! His congregations, his conversions, his people—were Jews! He was crucified by a Roman law—unknown to Hebrew jurisprudence. He was condemned by a Roman tribunal. The historic fact is, that he was neither condemned nor crucified by Jews. The cowardly plea of Pilate does not controvert this. It confirms it, on the contrary. The mother of our Lord was a Jewess.

Peter, of whom Christ said: "On this rock I will build my church"—was a Jew! In fact, in ancient history the importance and standing of the Jew is incontrovertibly attested.

We will omit the long list of what the Jews accomplished from the beginning of the Christian Era to more modern times. We will only advert to the fact that the Jews originated essentially the monotheism of the world and that to them we owe the most profound conception of the Deity that mankind had evolved prior to the Old Testament.

Moses Mendelssohn, the grandfather of Felix, was recognized as one of the great philosophers of his century. Felix, the grandson, was one of the world's musical geniuses of all time! Three, or more, of Napoleon's marshals, were Jews. Heine, that marvelous poet of the Germans; the Rothschilds, the world's first financial geniuses, were Jews; Disraeli, who lashed the Jew-hating nation of England into cowering subjection, was a Jew; and among those who have conquered in every field of science, art, literature, commerce, or state craft, since—will be found those who proudly bear the name of Jew!

As to the recent attacks on the race, we may mention prominently, the name of Henry Ford! But we have, hitherto, in these columns, given him his due. He has had proper recognition for his incontestable genius. But Henry Ford, aside from his merits as a manufacturer, as a discoverer of new social-economic laws in the 20th century—is an absurd paradox. His ridiculous

Peace-ship; his disgraceful confessions of ignorance on the witness-stand; his inconceivable attacks on the Jews of more recent occurrence—all prove the wisdom of the old Roman adage, "Ne sutor ultra crepidam!" We believe an hour's instruction of Ford would prove, even to him, his utter folly!

We have held this brief for the Jews! Because they are of the worthiest class of our fellow-citizens. And because they are patriotic fellow-Americans—the same as the rest of us! And because they have been unjustly and unwarrantably attacked!

Historic Alexandria

The Gazette is in receipt of a neatly gotten-up brochure, entitled "The Romance of Historic Alexandria," a Guide to the Old City, and is written by Rev. Dr. Eugene B. Jackson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Alexandria. It has been prepared under the auspices of the Civic Improvement League of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, and is published by the A. B. Caldwell Publishing Co., of Atlanta, Ga.

We congratulate Dr. Jackson on his accurate and painstaking labors, on his skilful arrangement of subject-matter, and on his interesting style in setting it forth. The illustrations deserve especial mention for their artistic beauty, their excellent press-work, and their appropriate setting in the text.

As a guide-book, so-called, it is the best thing so far gotten out, and should be placed conspicuously on sale both in Washington and Alexandria. It not only arouses and stimulates interest in the most historic town in the United States, but it imparts information of inestimable value, and shows the allding care of the historian in collating his facts.

Every man, woman and child in Alexandria should read this book. Not only that, but the thousands of tourists who pilgrimage yearly to our city should be provided with copies that they may refresh their memories and avail themselves of the data that should be dear to every American.

We congratulate Dr. Jackson on the satisfactory results of his labors, and likewise the Civic Improvement League on its wisdom and foresight in thus providing a means of emphasizing the indisputable halo of romantic history that hovers over our historic city. We know of no other city in the United States than can claim equal honors.

We believe this work is most timely and predict an unbounded success for its future popularity.

American Education Week

The Origin of the Plan.

The American Legion through its Americanism commission asked and received the cooperation of the National Education association in teaching and fostering true Americanism in all the schools of America. The Americanism commission and the National Education association have approved the following statement, as adopted in the resolutions of the National Education association at its last annual meeting in Des Moines, July, 1921.

The National Education association welcomes most heartily and accepts with great appreciation the offer of the American Legion to cooperate with the National Educational association in securing for America a program of education adequate to meet the needs of the twentieth century and which will give every boy and every girl that equipment in education and training which his right under our democratic government and which will make of all, whether native or foreign born, good American citizens. To the accomplishment of these ends, be it resolved:

1. That all teachers in America, exchange teachers and professors excepted, should be American citizens and should be required to take an oath of allegiance to the government of the United States.

2. That no one should be permitted to teach in any school in America who has less than a standard high school education of four years with not less than two additional years of professional training.

3. That the English language should be the only basic language of instruction in all public, private, and parochial elementary and high schools.

4. That adequate instruction should be required in American history and civics for graduation from both the elementary and high schools.

5. That the American flag should be displayed by every school during school hours and that patriotic exercises should be conducted regularly in all schools, and further, that the American Legion be invited to furnish speakers from time to time at these and other exercises of the schools.

6. That school attendance should be made compulsory throughout the United States for a minimum of 36 weeks annually to the end of the high school period or to the age of 18.

7. That an educational week should be observed in all communities annually for the purpose of informing the public of the accomplishments and needs of the public schools and to secure the cooperation and support of the public in meeting these needs.

8. That the representative assembly of the National Education association authorize the appointment of a standing committee to cooperate with the American Legion throughout the year for the purpose of carrying into effect the program outlined above.

The Purpose of the Week.

The main purposes of the week are to inform the public of the accomplishments and needs of the public schools and to secure cooperation and support of the public in meeting these needs and to teach and foster good Americanism.

No service has suffered more from the unintelligent criticism than the schools. The average citizen does not read educational literature or accounts of teachers' meetings or visit

MARRIED LIFE

A 300-pound hog, a report and an alleged assault were the three things that were responsible for Sherman Barber, colored, being arraigned before the bar of justice today to answer a charge of assault preferred by his wife, May Barber.

The first act took place at their home several days ago, when, according to the testimony, the 300 pound hog was slaughtered. The next act of this domestic drama took place after Barber heard a report that his wife was going to leave town with another man and carry away the hog, and act three ended with the alleged assault.

The court heard a long statement of Barber which was to the effect that he had stated that if his wife ran away with another man he would kill her. The couple were advised by Justice Snow to divide the hog and furniture and go and sin no more and their personal bonds were taken. Barber was taken in custody by Policemen Wagner and Durrer.

ism as a learned profession. The world has been so dazzled by the military career of General Robert E. Lee, that few, even in the South, are aware of his genius and wisdom as a great educator.

In an age when college education consisted mainly of classical and philosophical studies, his first step at Washington College was to establish a practical school of civil and highway engineering to rebuild the devastated South. With even greater originality and foresight, he became, in 1869, a generation ahead of his times, the founder, in America, of Journalism as a learned profession.

The story of this first American School of Journalism is this given in the opening paragraphs of the U. S. Bulletin above referred to. The reconstruction period of American history saw the first attempt on the part of an institution of higher education to add technical instruction in journalism to the curriculum. Strangely enough, the attempt was made in the South, at what was then known as Washington College, but what is today Washington and Lee University. General Robert E. Lee had been made president of this college, and was seeking to train the youth of the South, not in the ways of war but in those of peace. Convinced that the press could aid greatly in the solution of the problems then confronting the South, he sent to the board of trustees of Washington College the following recommendation on March 30, 1869:

I beg leave to submit for your consideration several propositions from the faculty, which would not have been presented until your regular meeting in June but for the fact that, should they receive your approbation, the necessary changes in the catalogue of the present session now preparing for publication, will be made.

The proposition recommending the institution of 50 scholarships for young men proposing to make printing or journalism their profession. I will only add that all the foregoing subjects have been maturely considered by the faculty and have received their unanimous assent.

The board of trustees, upon the receipt of President Lee's letter, adopted the following resolutions, already passed by the faculty of Washington College:

Resolved, That the board of trustees be requested to authorize the faculty to appoint to scholarship, to be called — scholarships, not exceeding 50 in number, young men intending to make practical printing and journalism their business in life, such scholarships to be free from tuition and college fees on condition that, when required by the faculty, they shall perform such disciplinary duties as may be assigned them in a printing office or in other positions in the line of their profession for a time equal to one hour in each working day.

Resolved, That the board of trustees be requested in order to carry the foregoing provision into effect to make such arrangements for, or with a printing office as may afford practical instruction and, so far as practicable, compensated employment in their business to such young men.

At the June meeting of the board the faculty reported, on press scholarship, that a limited number of boys can receive instruction in the printing office of Messrs. Lafferty & Co., in this town, for the present, without charge or cost to the college. Notices about such instruction in Journalism appeared in the catalogue of Washington College until 1878.

Two points in this—the first announcement of any "school of journalism" deserve special attention: First, practical instruction was to supplement the work of the classroom; second, the use of the press as a means of making such arrangements for or with a printing office as may afford practical instruction" shows clearly that Gen. Lee had a vision of a printing plant that might, at a later date, be installed at Washington College.

The suggestion that technical instruction in journalism be provided at Washington College was not welcomed by the fourth estate of the time. Frederic Hudson, the managing director of the New York Herald, when asked, "Have you heard of the proposed training school for journalists?" promptly replied, "Only casually, in connection with General Lee's college, and I can not see how it could be made very serviceable. Who are to be the teachers? The only place where one can learn to be a journalist is in a great newspaper office." E. L. Godkin, of the New York Evening Post, characterized "the establishing of a special chair or the opening of a special class of journalism in colleges" as an absurdity. William Hyde, editor of the Missouri Republican, when asked "Is a school of journalism possible?" replied, "For any practical good; no."

The idea was too progressive for the time, when the only way to learn law was to help an old lawyer draw up papers after the student had swept out the office in the morning; the only way to study medicine was to help a doctor of the old school to mix his pills and powders after the student had cleaned the horse and washed the buggy. Therefore, the only way to study journalism was to help a printer wash the type after the student had dumped the editor's wastebasket. But Gen. Lee had a vision, and he tried to make his dream come true.

COOK RABBITS LIKE CHICKEN AND CUT PROVISION BILL

During the winter months rabbits are on sale in many markets at a fairly reasonable price. Wild rabbits are often relished, but those especially raised for food are apt to be more tender. A rabbit which, after being skinned, drawn, and prepared for cooking, weighs 2 pounds 14 ounces will have almost the same weight of cooked meat as a chicken similarly prepared weighing 3 pounds 15 ounces, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1080, Rabbit Raising, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. A rabbit of the above weight was cooked in 1 hour 5 minutes, and the chicken in 2 hours 30 minutes, but the rabbit meat was the more tender.

The flavor and use of rabbit is comparable with chicken, and the meat may be prepared in most of the ways in which chicken is liked. The recipes below offer suggestions: fpp 1 of do ro vor o do morf oh Baked Rabbit

1 rabbit.
3 cups cream or a thin white sauce.
6 slices bacon.
Flour for dredging.
Skin clean, and wash the rabbit, and split it into two pieces, cutting along the backbone. Rub with salt and a little pepper, place in a roasting pan, and dredge with flour. Lay strips of bacon across the rabbit. Pour over and around it 3 cups of the white sauce or 3 cups of cream.

Bake 1-2 hours, basting frequently. Serve hot with the cream gravy. The liver may be boiled until tender, chopped, and added to the gravy before serving.

Rabbit Croquettes
1 1-2 cups of half milk and half rabbit broth.
6 tablespoons flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons butter.
1 teaspoonful onion juice or finely chopped onion.
1 teaspoon finely chopped green pepper.
Few grains pepper.
2 cups ground or chopped rabbit.

Make a white sauce of the milk, flour, butter, and seasonings. When it is thoroughly cooked remove from fire and add the ground rabbit. Cool and shape into croquettes. Roll in egg and bread crumbs and fry in deep fat or bake in a hot oven until well browned.

Spiced Rabbit
1 rabbit.
6 slices bacon.
1 medium-sized onion.
2 teaspoons salt.
1-4 teaspoon pepper.
1 tablespoon cloves.
Brown sauce:
1-2 cup of water.
1-2 cup of flour.

Skin draw, and wash rabbit and cut it into pieces. Put it into stew pan with bacon cut into small pieces, onion cut fine, salt, pepper, and whole cloves in a bag. Cover with boiling water and cook slowly until tender.

Caramelize the sugar and add water thickened with flour well blended with 2 tablespoons of water. Pour this brown sauce over the spiced rabbit and allow the whole to simmer 2 hours.

THE MAN OF THE MARNE

By Bliss Curman.

The gray battalions were driving down
Like snow from the North on Paris Town.

Dread and panic were in the air,
The fate of empires hung by a hair.
With the world in the balance, what shall decide?

How stern the sweep of the conquering tide?
God of Justice, be not far
In this our hour of holy war!

In one man's valor, where all were men,
The strength of a people was gathered then.
"My right is weakened, my left is thin,
My center is almost driven in,"
The Soul of a patriot hero spoke,
"I shall advance!" said General Foch.
Forth from Paris to meet the storm
They rushed like bees in an angry swarm.
By motor and lorry and truck they came
Swift as the wind and fierce as flame.

Papa Joffre knew the trick
Of stinging hot and hard and quick.
Not for ambition and not for pride,
For France they fought, for France they died.

Striking the blow of the Marne that hurled
The barbarians back and saved the world.
The German against that hope forlorn
Broke his drive like a crumpled horn.

Their right was weakened, whose left was thin,
Whose center was almost driven in,
But France was there, immortality woke;
"I shall advance!" said Ferdinand Foch.

Not since Garibaldi's stroke
Freed his land from the Austrian yoke,
The war of the angels for goodly right

And Italy after a thousand years
Walked in beauty among her peers;
Not since Nelson followed the star
Of Freedom to triumph at Trafalgar
On the tossing floor of the Western seas;

No, not since Miltiades
Fronted the Persian hosts and won
Against the tyrant at Marathon,
Has a greater defender of liberty
Stood and struck for the cause than he.

Whose right was weakened, whose left was thin,
Whose center was almost driven in,
But whose iron courage neither broke
Nor faltered. "I shall advance!" said Foch.

We who are left to carry the fray
For civilization on today,
The war of the angels for goodly right

Against the devil of brutish might,
The war for manhood, mercy, and love,
And peace with honor all price above,
What shall we answer, how prepare,
For Destiny's challenge, Who goes there?

And pass with the willing and worthy
To give Life, that freedom and faith may live?
When promise and patience are wearing thin,
When endurance is almost driven in,
When the last delusion has vanished in smoke,
Remember the Marne, and Ferdinand Foch!—Hearst's Magazine.

Why Guess About It— When You Can Know About It?

Suppose a guide said—

"This way there's a safe and pleasant road to your destination, with no risks or troubles on the way," and—

"That way there's a road that a good many have stalled on and turned back from, but you may get through."

Which would you take?

Postum is a thoroughly agreeable and satisfying meal-time drink, and you're sure that it's perfectly safe for health. Coffee contains drug qualities which disturb and harm the health of many.

Postum or coffee? Which road?

Why guess when you can know?

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

National Education Week in Alexandria

Alexandria is planning to cooperate fully in the observance of National Education Week, the date of which has been set by the President for December 4 to 10, inclusive. The week will be opened by sermons on education, in a number of the local churches. In the public schools, it is planned to have all the children above the second grade informed upon the subject, and the high school will devote its weekly assembly to the continuation of public education. Some of the grade teachers are planning to invite their patrons one day next week, and the City Teacher's Association is to have a dinner at which a noted educator will talk.

In a number of cities four minute speakers will present the subject to the audiences in motion picture houses, and it is hoped that this arrangement can be made in Alexandria. The big educational program to which all the leading organizations of the city are to be invited will be held one evening in the week. The local paper is generous in its offer of space for educational articles and the reports of educational meetings.

In these days of propaganda of all sorts, the safety of our nation depends upon the intelligence of the masses of our people. For this intelligence we must look to our educational system. Alexandria will take its place with the other progressive cities of the nation in furthering this movement and insuring the safety of our nation. M. D. F.

THE DRIFTER'S HOME HINTS

By "The Drifter."
Refinishing Furniture

By the expenditure of few dollars, any woman can transform her shabby rooms into almost unbelievable daintiness and beauty by treating some of her least attractive pieces of furniture to a new coat of paint and adding accessories of bright, cheerful colors. It is not necessary to remove the varnish unless it is very glossy. In this event, a varnish remover must be employed.

Before painting, furniture should be stripped of all ornate carving or applied decorations. Many of these ornaments are merely glued to the surface. When they are part of the wood they can often be obliterated by a jack plane. The awkward side-arms that hold the mirrors should always be removed. The mirrors, after the frames are painted to match the furniture, can be suspended from the picture molding. Frequently the head and foot boards of beds can be lowered to a more graceful height. The draw pulls can be easily taken off and can be replaced by glass or wooden knobs.

Unfortunately the holes left after the drawer pulls have been removed cannot be hidden by the knobs. To remedy this, stuff in damp newspaper as a foundation for putty, which should be smoothed flush with the face of the drawer and allowed to dry before the first coat of paint is applied.

The choice of color is important. The various shades of ivory and French gray, both of which vary in depth and color, are safest for the amateur, who, in choosing, should remember that often those shades that appear best on the color cards would be too dominant for the furniture of the entire room. Then, too, not all shades can be matched in enamel. At least three coats of paint and one coat of enamel are necessary to cover dark furniture. For light woods, and white enameled beds two of paint and one of enamel are usually sufficient. Painting an iron bed to match the other furniture in the room is an excellent way to make it harmonize with its surroundings.

After the paint is thoroughly dry, apply one coat of enamel, and, since this must be done quickly and accurately, attempt it only in bright daylight. Use a soft, rather large brush and let the enamel flow from it across the surface. Do not use a paint stroke. The enamel dries quickly, so it is best to apply it first to the top of the surfaces like the sides of dressers, going all the way down in the same way, flowing each application on so that it will blend into the last. During this process, stand all drawers on end and lay mirror frames flat. On flat surfaces the enamel has no chance to run downward and dry in festoons. If this happens, remove the festoons after they are thoroughly dry by rubbing gently with fine sandpaper. Then re-enamel the entire surface.

Every housewife realizes that to put the distinctive touch into the holiday feast, it is necessary to serve nuts. The Drifter has endeavored to bring to you just four recipes where the meats of the American walnut adds that distinctive touch.

Walnut Turkey Dressing

Two cups stale bread crumbs, two-thirds cup melted butter, one-half cup raisins, seeded and cut in pieces, one half cup walnut meats, broken in pieces; salt and pepper, sage. Mix ingredients in the order given. Try it once and you will never again be content to serve turkey without walnuts.

French Walnut Cake

One cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, sift over two-thirds cup finely chopped walnuts, separate 2 eggs, beat yolks add pinch of salt to whites and beat dry; add two yolks 1-2 cup milk and beat thoroughly. Cream small 1-2 cup of butter, add slowly 1 cup sugar, creaming constantly, add yolks a little at a time, alternating with the walnut mixture, fold in whites of eggs last. Bake 30 minutes in a square pan in a moderate oven.

Walnut Maple Ice Cream

One cup of maple syrup, 1-2 cup of granulated sugar, 1 cup of cream, 1 cup of finely chopped walnuts, 8 eggs beaten. Make a custard, add cream whipped, then the nuts, freeze hard, pack and let stand for two hours before serving.

Walnut Candy (Pancakes)

Three cups sugar, 1 cup milk, butter size of walnut; 1 cup of broken walnuts, 1 teaspoon of vanilla or lemon; pinch of salt. Boil sugar, milk and butter until firm when tried in cold water. Remove from the fire and stir. When partially cooled, add the extract and walnuts. Beat until creamy. Pour into buttered pans to cool.

French Pastry From Your Home Canned Fruits

One of the most delicious of desserts is a fruit tart. For this dainty spread tart so often served in France, where the covered fruit pie is almost unknown, a nice short pastry may be used, or a puff paste as preferred to make the puff paste, sift two cups of flour and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt onto the pastry board, make a well in the center, pour in sufficient ice water and the juice of half a lemon to form a smooth paste, working in at the same time a tablespoonful of butter, knead the paste smooth, and allow it to stand for a few minutes. Wash half a pound of butter in ice water, knead it in a cloth and shape into a flat square. Roll out the paste into a square about twice the size of the butter. Put the butter in the center of the paste, fold in the four sides so as to envelope the butter completely. Roll out gently in one direction and fold in three.

Keep the paste in a cool place, and repeat rolling and folding as before four times, allowing the paste to rest at least fifteen minutes each time. When ready to use, roll out some of the puff paste and line a pie tin with it. Ornament the edges and prick the bottom of the paste to prevent blistering while baking. Fill with uncooked rice and bake until a golden brown. Remove the rice from the baked tart crust. When cold fill with any canned fruit, reduce some of the juice by boiling without a lid and glaze the fruit with this, leaving it to solidify like jelly when cold.

Canned Apricot Tarts

Line deep tins with puff paste and bake it a light brown. Let it cool, then spread some marmalade on the bottom. Cover the marmalade with drained canned apricots and reduce the syrup with some sugar added. Pour this over the apricots.

Apple Tarts

Line tart tins with pie pastry, and then fill it with tart apples cut into small pieces. Sprinkle with finely shredded citron, small bits of butter, some sugar and half a teaspoonful of currant jelly. Bake in hot oven.

Plum Tarts

Cover tart tins with puff paste, then fill with plums from which stones have been removed. Dust lightly with sugar and bake in a moderate oven.

Choice Cuts —and Others

A few months ago a newspaper man visited one of the wholesale markets of Swift & Company. He wanted to see a retailer buy a short loin of beef and then watch the retailer sell the porterhouse and sirloin steaks from it over his counter. He thought this would make a good story.

The head of the market took the reporter into the "cooler" where he showed him a high class side of beef. With a wooden skewer he marked off the short loin and said, "That is only 8 per cent of the weight of the whole side and it is selling for four times as much as this piece (and he marked off the "chuck," which is about one-fourth of the side of beef)."

The wide variation in the wholesale price of various cuts from the same side of beef is caused largely by demand for the so-called choicer cuts. The others are, of course, just as wholesome.

It seems as though more people than ever are demanding choicer cuts, and their demand sets the price. If few people ask for the forequarter cuts, the price of forequarters will automatically drop to a figure low enough to induce people to buy because of cheapness.

Even though certain cuts sell for relatively high prices, other cuts, due to lack of demand, sell so low that our profit from all sources over a period of five years averaged only a fraction of a cent a pound.

It is competition between consumers for the choicer cuts that keeps prices for those cuts relatively high, an equalizing demand for all parts of the carcass would benefit producer, packer, retailer and consumer.

Our average wholesale selling price of all products has fallen about 40 per cent since September 1920.

American Education Week

The meaning of the American flag taught and the flag honored. Members of the American Legion and others should be invited to speak at meetings held in the schools and in the community.

The following topics are suggested for speeches at general meetings:

1. American ideals and Americanism.
2. National contributions to our immigrant citizens—awaken in the various races among us pride in our country and its government.
3. American patriotism—wear the flag in your heart, as well as in your buttonhole. Celebrate the deeds of great civil as well as military heroes.
4. The school and the nation.
5. Education, the greatest investment for community, state, and nation.
6. How education may be promoted.
7. The communities' responsibility toward the school.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov.—Because the schoolroom is the cradle of the nation because the foundation of every state is the education of its youth, The National Americanism Commission of The American Legion and the National Education Association have joined hands to promote and foster education and thereby strengthen and perpetuate a better Americanism, build a more intelligent and better citizenry and withal, equip the youth of the nation more adequately to cope with life and forge ahead the interest and achievements of the entire United States.

States.

The initial effort is to be made with the inauguration of "American Education Week," December 4th to 10th, which is to be fittingly observed in every state in the union, every city and every community. Governors of states, mayors of cities and towns in every section of the country have already issued proclamation, urging the citizens to observe this week in a fitting way and bend their energies toward the successful accomplishment of its objectives.

This is but the initial step in the elaborate plan of the two organizations working together for the accomplishment of their joint objective—better education and better Americanism. Each year this week is to be observed. As progress is made, situations clarified, definite plans will crystallize and solidify into perfected programs for this accomplishment. Throughout the nation on December 4th, Sunday, ministers will preach upon the urgent need for better education. From all over the country come eager acceptance of the invitation to preach upon this subject. And through out the week, the press, pulpit, educators, patriotic bodies, national clubs, community clubs and other civic bodies will co-operate to make the plan a splendid success.

The main purposes of the week are to inform the public of the accomplishments and needs of the public schools, particularly of the urgent needs, and to secure co-operation and support of the public in meeting these needs and to teach and foster good Americanism.

"No service has suffered more from untimely criticism than the schools," Dr. Carl Ormand Williams, president of the National Education Association, and Alvin M. Owsley, National Director of the National Americanism Commission, have said after a thorough preliminary survey of the educational situation in the United States.

"The average citizen does not read educational literature or accounts of teachers' meetings or visit schools to learn what they are doing or how the children are faring," the statement continued.

"The average citizen has a conception of school only as he knew it in his own school days. American Education Week should give the tax payers who furnished the funds for the public school first-hand knowledge of the service for which they pay. Educators cannot afford to neglect this opportunity to advertise its aims and purposes."

It is the duty of all the friends of education to think seriously and work hard on the problem of keeping the idea of public education before all the people all the time.

"In every possible way the public's attention should be centered on educational problems," the joint statement continues. "It should be centered upon the need of better building, libraries and equipment, playgrounds, better attendance, better paid teachers, longer school term, better vocational education; better understanding of the form and fundamental principles of our government and better and universal use of the English language. Special emphasis should be placed on the singing of patriotic songs, salutes to the flag, the flying of the flag from every school house every school day the weather permits, and upon short, interesting accounts of essential facts in American history."

OLD AGE, HIS MARK!

Oliver Wendell Holmes, in the charming discourses of "The Professor at the Breakfast Table," refers to an unmistakable sign of old age. It is three parallel lines between the brows. We can detect the first traces of disease by signs just as plain.

When a woman suffers from backache, nervous depression, dragging-down pains, and those ailments peculiar to women, it is plain that she needs a woman's medicine. What other medicine could she more wisely resort to than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for half a century has proved the natural restorative for these troubles?

INGROWN TOE NAIL

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight. "Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

OH! MY BACK!

The Expression of Many a Kidney Sufferer in Alexandria.

A stubborn backache is cause to suspect kidney trouble. When the kidneys are inflamed and swollen, stooping brings a sharp twinge in the small of the back, that almost takes the breath away. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve sluggish kidneys—relieve aching backs. Here's Alexandria proof:

Mrs. M. E. Williams, 523 Oronoco St., says: "I was so bad off with pains in my back I was about all worn out. I put my hands on my back trying to relieve the pain through my kidneys. When I bent over I could hardly straighten again. This weakened me very much and made me so nervous I could hardly stand the least noise. Dizziness affected me when I bent and everything would turn black. My kidneys didn't act at all right. I tried different things but nothing did me any good until I started using Doan's Kidney Pills. I kept getting better right along and was soon cured."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Williams had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
